Early Season Basketball Report

The Castleberry High School boys basketball team has struggled a bit to start the 2025-26 season. They did open the season with a victory over the Trimble Tech Bulldogs, 34-30. But since then the Lions have found victories just beyond their reach. They followed that first win with losses to Itasca (50-39), Mineral Wells (34-32), Palmer (61-37), and Vanguard (75-41).

Upcoming games for the Lions in December see them traveling to Godley for a tournament on Dec. 11-13. Following that they will travel to Ferris on Dec. 16. The Lions will then return home to play Newman International on Dec. 19. They will then host the annual Castleberry Tournament Dec. 29-31. Go Lions!

The Lady Lions basketball team has gotten off to a little better start than the boys. CHS won their first two games of the season. They beat Diamond Hill (76-9) and Western Hills (50-18). Unfortunately a 5 game losing streak followed, with losses to Roosevelt (57-34), Adams (56-30), Arlington (40-6), (continued on page 2)

Irving (39-22), and Benbrook (48-32). The Lady Lions bounced back with victories in their next two games over Adamson (33-26) and North Side (16-13). These wins were followed by a couple of defeats to Peaster (45-7) and Carter Riverside (42-19). The rollercoaster continued with victories over Village Tech (29-25) and Trimble Tech (36-28) with a loss to Lake View (29-25).

The girls entered a rematch with Carter Riverside this past week. They played much better this time, despite a much closer score in this game they were just barely nosed out in the end and lost 32-29. The Lady Lions are now 6-9 on the year.

Upcoming schedule includes games on Dec. 12 (Poly) and Dec. 16 (Bridgeport) both at home. On Dec. 19 they will travel to Krum before returning home for the annual Castleberry Tournament on Dec. 29-31. Go Lady Lions!

Texas History Minute by Dr. Ken Bridges

Peacemaker of the Plains: Jesse Chisolm's Legacy Lives on Through the Legendary Trail That Bears His Name

The Old West became notorious for the violence that befell communities and individuals. Some individuals, however, acted as peacemakers. Jesse Chisolm, a merchant who developed a network of trading posts from Texas up to Kansas, became known for his mediation efforts and his efforts to expand commerce in the area. He was never wealthy, but his reputation as a guide, translator, diplomat, trader, and explorer gave him an important role in shaping the West. His most lasting legacy was creating the legendary Chisolm Trail, which became a vital pipeline for the famous cattle drives of the late nineteenth century.

Jesse Chisolm was born in the Great Hiwassee area in the mountains of southeastern Tennessee around 1805, inside what had been Cherokee territory. His exact date of birth is uncertain. He was the oldest of six children born to Ignatius Chisolm, a Scottish immigrant and trader, and Martha Rogers, a Cherokee. His father was involved in sales of all sorts, respectable and otherwise, including trading slaves in the Knoxville area.

Chisolm's lifetime would be marked by the dramatic collapse of tribal control of their territories. Even as a child, he was already living with its effects. By this time, relations between the Cherokees and the settlers were breaking down. Many settlers were encroaching on Cherokee lands, seizing it for themselves in violation of treaty while the federal government did little to stop it. By the early 1810s, many Cherokees were starting to see the writing on the wall and started moving west. The Chisolms left with this first wave westward, settling in what is now western Arkansas for a time.

In the 1820s, the family moved further west near Fort Gibson in what was soon to become the Indian Territory, or modern-day Oklahoma. His father brought him into the merchant business, and he made a respectable living as a guide and a trader. Chisolm steadily built and maintained a series of trading posts throughout the area.

Though he spent most of his adult life as a merchant, Chisolm's most sought-after product was peace. Respected among both white politicians and Native American tribes, he was routinely sought out to mediate disputes between the tribes and the settlers. Chisolm reportedly spoke a dozen languages, mostly the languages of the different tribes of the Great Plains. As a trader, such skills of language and diplomacy were vital to his business success.

Sam Houston, while serving as President of the Republic of Texas, sought out Chisolm often to negotiate between Texas and the tribes. Houston himself had lived among the Cherokees for a time and believed that peace was possible between the settlers and the tribes. Chisolm managed to convince several tribes in the North Texas area to meet with Houston and Texas officials in a series of meetings called the Tehuacana Creek Councils in 1843 and 1844 near Waco. Through these efforts, several treaties of peace and trade were established between Texas and the different tribes. The success of these meetings helped expand his reputation as a translator and a mediator.

In the 1850s, Chisolm provided similar services helping to mediate between officials in Kansas and tribal representatives there. Throughout his efforts, Chisolm repeatedly tried to relay the good will and peaceful intentions of the tribes to leaders in Texas and Kansas.

During the Civil War, tribes in the Indian Territory were deeply divided and often sided with the Confederacy. Chisolm tried to stay out of the conflict, often trading with both the Union and Confederate sides. By 1864, he was operating out of Wichita, Kansas, and serving as an interpreter for the Union Army.

In 1865, Chisolm hoped to resume his trade business and expand his range of customers. He loaded a team of wagons with goods and left Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, south to his trading post near modern Oklahoma City. He extended the trail south to the Red River in order to give ranchers access to his trading posts along the way. Word of this safe and well-marked trail spread. As Texas ranchers saw the potential profit in driving cattle to Kansas for sale and shipment to eastern markets, Chisolm's trail became the obvious route to use as the cattle drives began by 1867.

After the end of the Civil War, it became increasingly obvious that the federal government intended to clamp down control over the tribes and force them onto reservations in spite of existing treaties. Chisolm attempted to bring tribal leaders together with federal officials in the Indian Territory to discuss the issues at hand. Tribal leaders were reluctant to meet, realizing that any treaty at that point probably meant a surrender. Within two years, leaders slowly gathered to talk with federal representatives. The result was the Medicine Lodge Treaty, a series of three treaties signed between the tribes and the federal government starting in October 1867. The treaty stipulated that the tribes would be assigned reservation territories within the Indian Territory, effectively putting an end to their way of life.

In April 1868, Chisolm died suddenly, apparently of food poisoning, while in the Indian Territory. He was respected for his efforts to broker peace on the plains. His efforts at expanding trade, however, would become his most famous legacy. As he died, the great age of the cattle drives was just beginning.

As more ranchers began shipping their cattle to Kansas from the late 1860s through the 1880s, his trail became a popular route and soon became known as the Chisolm Trail.
