Castleberry High School Sports Update

Girls Basketball

The CHS girls' basketball team finished their season the first week of February. They had another tough year as they finished 9-24 overall and 0-10 in district play. Hopefully, with a good nucleus of returning underclassmen for Head Coach Kenneth Ybarra and a good off-season they will have a better year in 2024-25. They will also be playing in a new realigned district (as well as all CHS teams next year).

Boys Basketball

The CHS boys' basketball team did make the UIL playoffs this past season. Head Coach Bart Beasley's team finished fourth in district with a 4-7 record. This pitted them in a matchup against Wichita Falls Hirschi who had won their district. First round matchups between fourth place teams in one district against District Champions in another are always tough. This was no different as the Lions season ended on Feb. 20 with a 62-33 first round playoff loss. Congratulations to the boys for making the playoffs!

Track (Boys & Girls)

Track season is in full swing. The teams began the competitive season on Feb. 15 with a Quad Meet at South Hills High School. This was followed by the annual Lions Relays at the CHS Track & Field facility on Feb. 24. They ended the month at the Gayle Purett Relays at Alvarado on Feb. 29. On March 8, they competed at the Springtown Invitational. Their next meet they will return to Springtown for the Pojo Relays on March 21. After that will be the Lake Worth Bullfrog Invitational (March 28) before the District 9-4A meet back at Springtown on April 3 & 4.

Girls Softball

The CHS girls' softball team has gotten off to a pretty good start. They began the 2024 season with a 15-13 victory over Crowley on Feb. 13. Since then, they have had a very active schedule and currently sport a nice 15-5-3 record. Their most recent game was 15-11 victory over Alvarado on March 8. They will begin district competition on March 19 at Bridgeport.

Boys Baseball

The CHS boys’ baseball team began the season taking on perennial baseball powerhouse Arlington Heights on Feb. 16. They loss that game by the score of 12-2 in 9 innings.

The next day they played their Annual Alumni Game at the CISD/YMCA Camp Carter Baseball/Softball Complex (always a fun event with alumni returning to play the current CHS team). Combining the game results available on the CISD athletic website and MaxPreps website the baseball team’s record is 5-6. The next CHS Lion baseball game will be March 19 at home vs. Decatur.

Girls Soccer

The CHS girls’ soccer team finished third in District 8-4A this year. Their last district game was this past Friday, March 8 against Bridgeport, which they won 1-0. The team finished with an overall record of 10-11-1 and 5-5 in district play. They now enter the UIL playoffs. Opponent and date/time was not available at press time. Go Lady Lions!

Boys Soccer

The CHS boys’ soccer team has been one of the very best teams in 4A in Texas this year. They have been ranked as high as second in the state during the season. Currently the team completed the regular season with a 22-3 record. They finished first in District 8-4A with an 8-2 record, which was identical to both Bridgeport and Decatur.

Just like the girl’s soccer team, the boys now enter the UIL playoffs and just like the girls the opponent and date were not available at press time. The boys have high expectations and hopefully will make a deep run into the 4A playoff bracket with the dream of making it to state.

Go Lions!

Texas History Minute by Dr. Ken Bridges

A Total Eclipse of the Sun Over Texas

On Monday, April 8, viewers in the continental United States will be witness to a rare, spectacular event: the total eclipse of the Sun by the Moon. And Texas will be able to enjoy most of the event in spectacular fashion. Across the entire state, at least 80% of the Sun will be obscured, allowing almost all of the Lone Star State to experience the event, with the area of the total eclipse moving across the heart of Texas.

Already, preparations are being made across the state. Hotel rooms in the path of the totality, the area of total eclipse, have been sold out for months. State officials estimate that millions could be visiting the state that day.

Though the Moon orbits the Earth every 28 days, the alignment of the Earth, the Moon, and the Sun to produce an eclipse only happens rarely. Eclipses have been sighted for centuries. Among the earliest recorded eclipses occurred in ancient Mesopotamia in 1375 BC. Ancient Egyptians, who worshipped the Sun, were reportedly so disturbed by the bad omens associated with eclipses that they would never mention or write about them, fearing bad luck.

Historically, eclipses have been met with both fascination and dread. The Chinese believed that dragons were eating the Sun, causing an eclipse. Drums were beaten to drive them off, according to legend. Similarly, an old Choctaw legend held that a black squirrel caused solar eclipses when it tried to eat the Sun and that the people needed to make noises to scare it off. Cherokees believed that a giant frog jumped onto the sun to cause an eclipse and that the people must beat drums and make loud noises to scare it away. For generations, Navajos believed that they should not eat during an eclipse or they would experience digestive problems. Navajo traditions also warned against looking at the Sun during an eclipse, or they would go blind, a belief backed by modern science. The ancient Mayans, without benefit of calculators or computers, were able to carefully calculate when eclipses would occur.

Eclipses have also been an important tool for scientific discovery. Astronomers discovered a new comet during an eclipse in AD 418. The Sun's corona was first noticed in an eclipse in 968. In the eighteenth century, solar prominences, eruptions on the Sun's surface, were observed. These all helped give important information on how the Sun worked. The first eclipse photographed was in 1860. Eclipses in 1919 and 1929 helped confirm Albert Einstein's theory of relativity by confirming that the light of stars traveling near the Sun was bent by the Sun's intense gravity.

The totality will take a path stretching from Del Rio, which will reach totality at 1:30 up to Texarkana, which will see the totality at 1:56. The path of the Moon's shadow will roughly run parallel to Interstate 35 north of San Antonio to the Metroplex and include the almost the entire path of Interstate 30. San Antonio will be on the eastern edge of the totality, seeing the maximum eclipse by 1:34. Austin will see the total eclipse by 1:37, followed by Waco at 1:40. Almost the entire Dallas-Fort Worth area will be plunged into darkness as the Moon's shadow passes, including all of Dallas, Tarrant, Rockwall, and Collin counties by 1:42, with Denton on the northern edge of the totality. Even the extreme western and northwestern edges of the area such as Mineral Wells and Gainesville will see 98% coverage. The totality will cover the entire area between Sherman and Texarkana starting at 1:43.

Even people outside the totality will see a great deal of the eclipse. Along the Gulf Coast, viewers will see up to 93% of the eclipse, with Beaumont expected to see 94% at 1:40. On the northern side of the path of the totality, viewers will still see at least 83% of the Sun eclipse in the northwest Panhandle. Across the state, El Paso viewers will see 85% totality by 12:25 local time, Amarillo to see 87% eclipse by 1:40 and Lubbock to see 89% totality by 1:38. The line between San Angelo, Abilene, and Archer City will see 95% coverage. Wichita Falls will see 93% of the Sun obscured by 1:42.

The total time from the beginning of the eclipse until the end will be roughly two and one-half hours. A Dallas-area viewer will see the beginning of the eclipse at 12:23 and the end by 3:02. For Austin, it will begin at 12:17 and end at 2:58, with the peak at 1:37. At the mid-point of the eclipse, the totality will last between two and four minutes. From Texas, the long shadow of the Moon will then travel across Arkansas and Missouri and then to Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York, and to Maine throughout the afternoon. Millions of Americans are expected to enjoy what is being called the "Great American Eclipse."

Viewers should plan ahead to make sure the eclipse is viewed safely. Individuals need to remember that they should never look at the Sun directly. Even with most of the Sun obscured, the glare is too intense for the human eye to tolerate. Looking directly at the Sun is dangerous and could cause permanent eye damage and even blindness. Not even regular sunglasses or binoculars are safe. Darkened Welder's glass is the only safe glass dark enough to view an eclipse through. Specially made eclipse glasses can allow for safe viewing, but NASA recommends that these eclipse glasses not be used if they are torn or scratched and that children's viewing should be closely monitored. Even with eclipse glasses, people should not view the eclipse through telescopes, binoculars, or camera lenses. The classic pinhole projector will offer safe viewing: simply poke a small hole through one sheet of paper (poster board or cardboard can also work) and allow the fading sunlight to project onto another piece of paper.

With these precautions in place, the event promises to be a spectacular display of nature. As the Sun disappears behind the Moon, viewers will be able to see the features of the Moon. Lunar mountains and craters will allow only tiny pieces of the Sun to shine through, a phenomenon known as "Bailey's Beads." And the last piece of the Sun to disappear will shine brilliantly on the Moon's edge, known as the "Diamond Ring Effect."

NASA has unveiled a website for the eclipse, including tips on viewing the event safely at science.nasa.gov. Many communities are organizing eclipse viewing parties and events. The next major eclipse for Texas will be August 12, 2045.
