Castleberry ISD to Host Family Code Night Event

Castleberry ISD is proud to announce the first annual Family Code Night on Tuesday, Nov. 30 at Castleberry Elementary from 5:30 p.m. until 7:30 pm.

This free, come and go event will invite families to experiment with code, compete in challenges, and create online applications. Students need to bring their school issued device to be able to participate in all of the activities.

Families will move through three different types of coding activities: robotics, “unplugged” challenges, and code creation stations. As students complete each activity, they will receive a sticker to add to their Family Code Night Challenge Card.

There are several Challenge Card achievements that students can earn. First, if students complete at least one activity out of each of the three categories (Robotics, “Unplugged”, Creative), their challenge card will be entered into a drawing for fabulous door prizes such as lego kits and littleBits Music Inventor Kits. Additionally, certificates will be awarded to students who complete four robotics or four “unplugged” activities earning them the title of “Robotics Wizard” or “Unplugged Master” respectively. Ambitious students could even collect both!

Finally, in the Creation category, students who work through at least five steps to create an Hour-of-Code application will receive a sticker in recognition of their efforts. However, if students complete all 10 steps and acquire a QR code of their final project, they will be awarded a Creative Genius certificate and earn a Drone Flight Pass.

We are thrilled to provide access to Castleberry’s very own fleet of drones at this event! A Drone Flight Pass will guarantee each child the opportunity to pilot a drone through an aerial obstacle course. Students that successfully complete the obstacle course within the time limit will be awarded a Drone Captain License and

SHREK the Musical Comes to the Stage at CHS

A famous green ogre is going from the swamp to the stage at Castleberry High School. After months of rehearsal, Lion Theatre is ready to premiere Shrek the Musical.

The production was originally produced on Broadway by Dreamworks Theatricals and Neal Street Productions, with music by Jeanine Tesori. Make plans to attend and see how students make the fairytale creatures come to life on stage in this light-hearted adventure. The cast includes talented students from all grade levels in the district, ranging from elementary through high school.

Shrek the Musical runs Thursday, Nov. 18 and Friday, Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. in the Castleberry High School auditorium. Admission is $5 cash at the door.

Family Code Night

will be featured on Castleberry ISD social media platforms.

All attendees will be provided with complimentary snacks including hot dogs, nachos, cookies, and lemonade to replenish your brain power as you code the night away!

For the latest information regarding Family Code Night, visit the district's website.

VFW Post 10429 Celebrates United States Marine Corps 246 Birthday

VFW Post 10429 recently held a 246th birthday party for the United States Marine Corps. Several individuals participated at the event and the cake was absolutely delicious.

The USMC was formed on Nov. 10, 1775 in a bar in Philadelphia, at the same time the American Revolutionary War was going on.

The first Marines served on land and sea. Their journeys included the Americans first 'land and sea' raid into the Bahamas in March 1776.

Their motto Semper (Fi) Fidelis, "Always Faithful" began in 1883. Prior to that, USMC used three unofficial mottos; "By Sea and by Land", "Fortitude" and "To the Shores of Tripoli".

When a Marine is finished serving he/she ventures out to different careers. John Glenn was famous to veterans everywhere and he served in the USMC! He was the first American astronaut to orbit Earth. Other famous Marines include Oscar-nominated actor Adam Driver and Drew Carey.

Even 246 years later the USMC is hundreds of thousands strong!

As of 2021, approximately 178,500 actively serve. Their members on average are younger than the Air Force, Army and Navy.

Go to Marines.com for more fascinating stories and literature materials.

First Director of Women's Army Corps, Oveta Culp Hobby

by Dr. Ken Bridges

Oveta Culp Hobby was a woman of drive and determination. From newspaper editor to presidential cabinet secretary and more, Hobby lived a life of service and breaking barriers for women.

She was born Oveta Culp in 1905 in Killeen to lawyer Ike Culp and his wife, Elizabeth. She was one of seven children. She was very intelligent and studious as a child. When her father was elected to the state legislature in 1918, she accompanied him to the Capitol on many occasions to witness the legislature in action.

After graduating from Temple High School, she took classes at the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor and the University of Texas. Along the way, she briefly served as a teacher and as a reporter for the Austin Statesman.

In 1925, she was hired as the first woman parliamentarian for the Texas House of Representatives. Through this position, she made rulings on procedural questions and debates occurring in the legislature. She served for six years until her already adventurous life took yet another turn.

In 1931, she married William P. Hobby, who had served as Texas governor from 1917 to 1921 and publisher of the Houston Post. The two would eventually have two children together. Their son, William P. Hobby, Jr., would serve as lieutenant governor from 1973 to 1991.

Completely devoted to her husband, Oveta Hobby served as a research editor for the Post before becoming executive vice-president in 1938. She also served on a variety of local cultural boards in Houston as well as president of the Texas League of Women Voters.

In 1943, she was asked by Gen. George Marshall to organize and lead the Women's Army Corps. This was the first American military organization designed specifically for women. The WAC trained women to fill vital service roles from drivers to telephone operators to clerks but would not serve in combat. Hobby led tens of thousands of women volunteers, eventually earning the rank of colonel and becoming the first woman to earn the Distinguished Service Cross for her service.

After she stepped down from her duties as WAC Director in 1945, she resumed her work with Houston civic organizations and the newspaper. In 1949, she became the first woman to serve as president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

In 1953, Hobby was named by President Dwight D. Eisenhower to be the first Secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. She was only the second woman in American History to serve as a presidential cabinet secretary, following Frances Perkins, who served as Secretary of Labor under President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The new department oversaw federal pensions, Social Security, hospitals, medical research, and aid to universities. During her tenure as secretary, she approved the new polio vaccine developed by Dr Jonas Salk for use, a vaccine that effectively ended the polio epidemic in the United States.

As her husband's health began to falter, she resigned her position in 1955 and returned to Houston where she became president and editor of the Post. The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare was separated into the Department of Education and the Department of Health and Human Services in 1979.

Oveta Hobby earned many honors in her later years, including having the Central Texas College Library in Killeen named after her as well as an elementary school in Killeen.

In 1984, she was inducted into the Texas Woman's Hall of Fame. In April 1995, the Houston Post ceased publication after years of falling profits and increased competition from the Houston Chronicle.

Hobby died four months later in Houston at the age of 90.
